The Society of American Bayonet

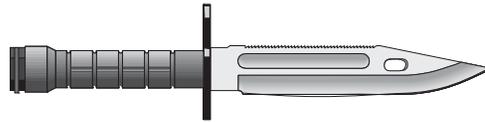

Collectors (SABC) is dedicated to the study, collecting and preservation of antique and modern bayonets. Our focus is on American made bayonets, including those that were produced for export and also foreign made bayonets that were used by the United States. However, our members also collect and study non-American bayonets. This includes related accouterments such as scabbards, frogs, belts, etc. Our scope includes all types of bayonets-- socket, sword and knife types.

Our annual meeting is held in conjunction with the Maryland Arms Collectors Association annual antique gun show, the famous "Baltimore Show." Our evening dinner meeting is a great opportunity to meet with fellow collectors and noted experts. Members display pieces from their collections, seek and share information about bayonets. Many spouses also attend.

Membership in the society will open new channels of history and collecting to you. If you know of others with similar interests we'd like to hear from them, too. We firmly believe that SABC membership is beneficial to all bayonet collectors, and particularly to those interested in American models.

Arms researchers and historians also benefit greatly. While some SABC members are internationally recognized authors of books and articles in the arms field, others are beginners with very small collections, but eager to learn more, and everyone has fun.

We feel that we have much to offer you, and would like to welcome you aboard. Current annual dues are $45.00, or $55.00 for members outside the United States.

Membership benefits include

Quarterly Journal of the Society of American Bayonet Collectors. This is devoted to articles on bayonets from our membership. Subjects covered include anything relating to bayonets, their development, their design, production, alteration and conversion, repair information, unusual models, and technical data. Also military bayonet training, tactics, and usage. Sometimes we cover management or display of individual bayonets or entire collections.

Special discounted hotel room rates for the "Baltimore Show" weekend and our annual meeting events.

Free listing (if desired) on our website.
